

PENINSULA VOLUTEERS, INC., DECORATOR SHOW HOUSE 2013

1 / Foyer

The two-story foyer sets the tone for the home and features original fir quarter-sawn wood paneling, a wall of French doors, and a sweeping staircase. A vibrant blue was used to pick up the blue tones in the foyer's original French wallpaper featuring a bamboo design. When restoring this space, the original paper was discovered under layers of paint and paper. A glaze was applied to the distressed paper to provide a unique finish. Chocolate linen drapes are trimmed in a blue silk stripe, and a variety of antiques and oil paintings complete the space.

Step away from the party and treat yourself to a moment of stillness and beauty in this powder room we call "The Jewel Box." This space is where traditional, contemporary, and modern designs meld together as one. Here, timelessness and longevity are truly the definition of green design. Take a moment to absorb the beauty of the craftsmanship found within this special room.

3 / Mother-in-Law Suite

Timeless sophistication and elegance combined with modern zest defines the ambiance of the Mother-in-Law Suite. The restful retreat was inspired by the beautiful natural light and stunning views of the estate. The focal point of the room is undoubtedly the sumptuous bed upholstered in a bold poppy velvet and accented with sparkling, polished nickel nailhead trim. A luxuriously comfortable armchair, covered in a decadent gray mohair fabric, offers the perfect spot to relax and read a book, while the modern desk with its smoky blue shagreen finish combines form with function, providing the guest a practical workspace to write letters or check email. The soft, graceful curves and silvery shimmer of the light fixtures add the finishing touch.
